PACE Internships

You can make appointments for advising and consultations about internships by stopping by our office in Woodburn 221, by calling the office (812.856.1747) or Joeleni directly (812.856.7882), OR you can visit https://starnet.indiana.edu to schedule an advising appointment with jbergonz.

All PACE students who have added the certificate are eligible for internship scholarships.

HUMANE SOCIETY INTERNSHIP

The Humane Society of the United States would like to hire approximately 4 summer interns to assist their regional directors around the country. Much of the work can be done remotely here from Bloomington or wherever you’ll be this summer, but if you have an interest in travelling to another part of the country this summer, there may be a regional director in that area for whom you could intern and work in person. The internship involves research of procedures and legislation in various state legislatures, assisting an HSUS regional director in state and local outreach and legislative campaigns, and providing help to animal shelters. It would be an ideal internship for someone who cares about animals and who is interested in a career in law, public policy, nonprofits, and advocacy work. Although the internship is unpaid, PACE students can earn PACE internship credit, and you will have the opportunity to make extremely valuable connections in animal-protection and humane legislation circles. PROJECT VOTE SMART INTERNSHIPS IN MONTANA OR TEXAS

Room and board in an extraordinarily beautiful location in Montana is provided when you intern at Project Vote Smart. The organization is a well-established, nonpartisan research facility that provides data on how political candidates have voted on a variety of issues and responds to special requests by citizens. Various departments seek interns: read the information here for online authorization to enroll.

• How do you envision yourself as a citizen?
• How do you want to personally and professionally develop yourself in the future to contribute to the university and to greater society?
• How do your personal qualities reveal potential citizenship goals and career choices?
• How can you best understand other perspectives when they differ from your own in order to work effectively with them?

Class participants will bring theories from the Political and Civic Engagement Program (PACE) program to the practice of citizenship skills and leadership development, particularly in regards to internship and professional development opportunities.

NY STATE SENATE FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM
The Graduate Fellowships offered by the Senate include Legislative Fellowships and Memorial Fellowships. Each Legislative Fellow is assigned to a specific Senator’s office, where they will function largely as if they were regular staff. While duties vary depending on the needs of the member, Legislative Fellows generally perform in-depth policy research, take part in meetings with various interest groups and constituents, and attend legislative sessions. Memorial Fellowships are awarded to applicants who demonstrate the unique qualifications and abilities required of each position. There are three such placements, each awarded to a single individual for the Fellowship class. CAN WE TAKE A JOKE? DOCUMENTARY
Wednesday, April 20, 7:00 p.m.
Ballantine Hall 006
Do you like edgy humor? Do you support free speech? Can We Take a Joke? is a hysterical feature-length documentary film that examines the collision between comedy and outrage culture. Narrated by comedians Christina Pazsitzky, the film features plenty of jokes and appearances from comedy heavyweights including Adam Carolla, Gilbert Gottfried, Penn Jillette, Jim Norton, Lisa Lampanelli, Heather McDonald, and Karith Foster. In addition to cutting edge humor, the film also features interviews with free speech champions including FIRE President and CEO Greg Lukianoff, Brookings Institution scholar Jonathan Rauch, and So You’ve Been Publicly Shamed author Jon Ronson. A discussion will follow the screening. Please contact Marissa Gentry at marissa.gentry@yaliberty.org for questions or concerns.
